Annual Meeting of St. Paul's Church Hears Interesting Reports

Despite Difficult Times Congregation Show Loyalty in Various Branches of Church Work.

The postponed annual congregational meeting of St. Paul's United Church was held on Monday, Jan. 28, at 7:30. Rev. Roy Taylor was in the chair and had charge of brief devotional exercises. Mr. J. Glendenning was elected secretary. The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and adopted. Reports of the various organizations were given in the following order: The session report by Elder J. Fairhurst and showed there had been no reception of new members during the year; the membership stood at 133. It was suggested that the roll of membership be revised in order to show a true record of the active members. None had been removed by death. There were three removals during the year. The session went on record as being in full accord with the work of the Minister and his wife in their leadership in the congregation.

Mention was made of the recent golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. A. McLeod and the felicitations of the congregation were extended. Mrs. McLeod replied in a few well-chosen words.

The Sunday school report given by Mr. Rippon showed that this important department was being well sustained by a staff of faithful teachers and officers. The Ladies' Auxiliary report was given by Mrs. N. McKinnon and showed a year of splendid work by this efficient organization.

The W.M.S. report given by Mrs. R. Holmes indicated a very commendable achievement by a small group of missionary enthusiasts. The C.G.I.T. report by Miss G. Higginbotham revealed that a good work was being done in the interests of teen-age girls.

The report of the Board of Managers was given by Mr. Taylor and showed that while there was a decrease in the total giving yet there was a considerable saving in expenditure. He urged that all get under the burden and place the finances on a sound business-like basis. This could be done by all, bearing as much as they possibly could of the burden.

The minister said that much could be done by all re-dedicating themselves to the service of the Master. He urged a larger attendance at the services. If our spiritual life were deepened by a more complete surrender the financial affairs of the church would be solved. Many were giving as much as they could be expected, and on the other hand others were not taking their responsibility seriously enough.

A reading by Mrs. R. Holmes was full of humor and was much enjoyed by all. John Petrocki rendered a violin selection accompanied by Miss U. Johnson. Miss Alvina Taylor sang a solo, the accompaniment being played by Miss U. Johnson. A social half hour followed at which refreshments were served by the Ladies' Auxiliary. It was decided owing to the late hour and hoping that there will be a larger representation of the congregation, that the members to the Board of Managers be elected at a congregational meeting to be held on Sunday evening Feb. 10th.

LIEUT.-GOV. WALSH

Chief Scout for Alberta is taking an active part in arousing interest in campaign to raise strength of Boy Scouts in this province.

100,000 Scouts for Dominion is Objective

Visit of Chief Scout Lord Baden-Powell in April Stimulates Boy Scout Movement.

In April, when Lord Baden-Powell and Lady Powell visit Calgary, there will be a monster demonstration of provincial Scouts. Lieut.-Gov. Walsh, chief scout for Alberta, and Col. J. H. Woods of the Calgary Herald are anxious that Alberta should be well represented.

In the Anglican cathedral in Calgary on Sunday morning Dean Ragg gave an inspiring address to the Scouts and Guides, stating that they by force of example and character would attract more members than all the pamphlets and radio talks.

It is hoped that the Scouts of this district will work with a view to sending a representative group to Calgary, and they should receive encouragement and support towards this end.

DOMINION HEADQUARTERS OFFICER TO VISIT GUIDES

Banquet in Honor of Visitor To Be Held on Saturday in the Grand Union

Miss Williams from the Dominion headquarters, will be here on Friday and Saturday (Feb. 1st and 2nd) to hold training classes for Leaders in all branches of Guide work. The meetings have been arranged as follows:

Friday at 2:30 and 7:30 in Bellevue, United Church hall; Saturday at 2:30 and 7:30 in Coleman, parish hall (Anglican).

A banquet will be held at the Grand Union hotel, Coleman, Saturday night at 6 o'clock. Tickets 50 cents. All Leaders are urged to attend and any prospective Leaders or those interested in Guide work will be welcomed.—Harriet M. Borden, Division Commissioner.

Many letters for and against Social Credit appear in the newspapers, and one appearing in the Red Deer Advocate closed with this: "Alberta should let this scheme alone until the Scotsmen in the old country have adopted it; then it might be safe." As Scottish people have a remarkably keen sense of shrewdness, maybe this is good advice.

Editors of Alberta Weekly Newspapers Held Annual Convention in Calgary

The editors of Alberta's weekly newspapers met in annual convention in the Palliser Hotel, Calgary, on Jan. 25-26. The Journal was represented by the editor, his wife and one daughter, and "A pleasant time was had by all."

Topics of interest were discussed; city wholesale paper houses, Midwest and Barber-Ellis Ltd., were hosts at a banquet, one of the speakers being the recently appointed provincial treasurer, Hon. J. K. Love, accompanied by his wife (formerly Miss Dorothy Kinney of Edmonton); Dean A. F. Howes, of the College of Agriculture, gave an address of sterling moral value interspersed with droll humor, and Everett Marshall, a veteran newspaper editor, capped the evening with a humorous five-minute talk.

On Saturday O. L. Spencer, manager of the Calgary Herald, and Gordon E. Leighton, managing editor of the Calgary Albertan, gave a few words of "wisdom" to the rural publishers and a few "pats on the back," and Elmer Roper of Edmonton spoke at length on the proposed code for the printing industry.

Entertainment on Saturday included a luncheon by the grain firms of the city, with addresses by Mr. Munson of the Alberta-Pacific Co., and J. C. Campbell, publicity commissioner for Canada's national parks. Reg. C. Nalder, of Toronto Type Foundry Co., Winnipeg, supplied the ladies with tickets for the theatre.

Regret was expressed that Mayor D. H. Elton of Lethbridge was unable to be present as the principal speaker at the luncheon on Saturday, especially by the editors of Southern Alberta, to whom he is well known.

Mayor Andy Davidson, a former linotype operator, extended the freedom of the city, and Colin Pratt, manager of the famous C.P.R. hotel, extended courtesies in accommodation which were appreciated.

Colin G. Groff, publicity commissioner for Alberta, and a staunch friend of the weekly editors, spoke on "The Place of the Weekly Newspaper in Developing Tourist Traffic," and Len D. Nesbitt, superintendent of publicity for the Alberta Wheat Pool, spoke on "Editorial Writing in the Country Weekly."

Fred Turnbull, manager of the Red Deer Advocate, led an interesting discussion on circulation methods. Not only has he been successful as a newspaper man, but as mayor of the city, he has shown good financial judgment, and has also been president of the Board of Trade and the Rotary Club.

Sid Duncan, editor of the Banff "Crag and Canyon," was chairman of the convention, and H. G. McCrea, of the Hanna Herald, was secretary, which office he has filled most efficiently for several years.

Tragic Ending of Bill Yates Brings Regrets

Old-Timer of Coleman and War Veteran "Goes West" in Forestry Hut at Crow's Nest Lake.

"Bill" Yates, aged 67 years, veteran of the world war and resident in Coleman since 1902, was discovered dead in the forestry hut at Crow's Nest Lake where he had lived for several years. A note clearly written indicated he had suffered discomfort from the severe cold weather, and had taken poison, which, failing to work sufficient to end his life, he had ended all by firing a bullet into his body just below the heart.

He was discovered lying in bed, the rifle on the floor alongside. The date of death could not be ascertained, the only indication on the note being "Wednesday," but it may have been Jan. 23 or a week previous.

Scottish Folk Honor Burns in Banquet and Darce Friday

Oddfellows Hall is Gathering Place, and Over 120 Members and Friends Celebrate.

With haggis "warm, reekin', rich," with Scottish songs and toasts, and with brilliant addresses, those of Scottish birth and descent in Coleman commemorated the 176th anniversary of the Scottish national poet, Burns, at a banquet in the I.O.O.F. hall, Friday evening, at which 120 guests were present.

Robert Morris, president of the Caledonian society, acted as chairman and toastmaster. The chairman, before starting the evening's festivities, asked, as a token of respect for a departed member, Mrs. Chalmers, one minute's silence.

Peter Smith carried in the haggis, the address being given by David Gillespie. Mr. Gillespie was called a few minutes later to give the blessing.

Harry Garner in response to the toast "The King" expressed the great loyalty and devotion shown by the people of the British Empire for their reigning monarch "The King."

Robert Morris in response to the toast to the "Immortal Memories" described the humble circumstances of the poet's early life; how his gentle nature caused him to stop, while at the plow, to write poems and songs about nature of which he was so much a part. Mr. Morris quoted famous lines from Burns' works to show the genius with which the poet was endowed.

Rev. Roy Taylor in response to the toast "To the Lassies" spoke in a humorous vein as to man's position in the world were it not for the lassies. If the history of outstanding events could be traced, said Mr. Taylor, it

Appraisals Of Progress

"If we are to take stock of the world's advance in 1934, let us first take stock of ourselves."

With this challenge to the conventional New Year appraisals of progress, Dr. Robert A. Millikan, a distinguished scientist and Nobel Prize winner, contributes to the January American Magazine what is described in an editorial review in "The Reader's Digest" as one of the truly stimulating articles of the month.

It is stimulating, and for that reason we utilize this column to reproduce The Reader's Digest editorial review of Dr. Millikan's article. It says:

Dropping for the moment his famous pursuit of the cosmic ray, Dr. Millikan seeks for rays of hope in the commonplaces of human existence. The usual end-of-the-year statistics on car loadings, steel output and building construction, he says, only blind us to the real fundamentals of mankind's advance. Records of transportation are important, but not so important as whether the men who last year used our vaunted methods of easing space were more thoughtful and kindly than those who were transported the year before. We may boast how speedily we get about and forget how to walk peacefully and reflectively with ourselves.

The number of miles traveled in automobiles is not as significant as what we saw and felt on our way. Did we hug the road and give battle at crossings, or were we chivalrous as knights? How many boons did we grant with our cars to the old, the lame, the shut-ins? And "how many times did we drive alone to a hilltop to read and to meditate, hungering for betterment?" Just as human values transcend statistics, so we must use the golden rule to measure true progress.

Our improved communication, whether by radio, telephone, or transatlantic cable, does not of itself denote a higher civilization. The main question is: What was communicated? Fear and prejudice? Our remarkable facilities tend to promote hate and greed, base ideas and false sentiments? Or did they reflect sounder thinking, more generous and humane impulses?

What if we did make a staggering number of telephone calls or talk freely to London and Paris? That is of small moment compared with whether or not we used the telephone as an instrument of fellowship. Did we call and offer to help a friend smitten by ill luck? Were we less rude and intolerant? There was no progress if we crowded into the mouthpiece and failed to employ the telephone for more intelligent, gracious conversation. The fact that some of our tall buildings are gloomy and half occupied becomes really tragic only as the minds of those who use them become gloomy and half occupied, too. Not the number of new buildings that go up but what goes on in them is the vital standard. Do new buildings connote better working conditions and larger opportunity?

Let us not be deceived by the production of our farms and factories. The supreme question is, did we grow in mental, moral and physical stature? Not how fast the wheels turned in 1934, but "how slow and firm were the feet of thoughtful men upon the earth."

Stratophere flights were made in 1934, but what of the aspirations of those who remained below? In 1935, perhaps, "if we are thoughtful and honest and kind and courageous, we may ascend a little way toward our own stratophere—the mysterious attitudes of ourselves."

Wanted Bells Used

Unless They Were Donor Would Not Attend Church

Antonio Giovanni Rebagliati, pioneer merchant of the Cariboo, has heard the peal of the bells he donated many years ago to the church in Lytton, B.C., and has returned to worship with his neighbors.

For many years the bells had not been rung because residents complained of the noise. "Ring my bells or I do not go to church," said Rebagliati. At last, his words have been heeded, the bells have been rung on Sundays and the merchant attends church regularly.

War Not Inevitable

Responsible Leaders Of Nations Must Make Up Their Minds To

Pay The Price

I do not think that war is, necessarily, either impending or inevitable. Acutely critical though the international position has become, it does not yet fill me with the same heavy sense of certain and imminent catastrophe as that which weighed upon my mind in 1913 and 1914. But war will come, and will work unprecedented havoc unless the responsible leaders of nations which are still free make up their minds to pay the price of preventing it.

This price, I have long maintained, is to declare that the renunciation of war has reduced the lawful function of national armaments to a police function; that the discharge of this police function entails the renunciation of neutrality towards any nation that may be guilty of recourse to war as an instrument of national policy; and that every member of the League and every signatory of the Briand-Kellogg Pact is, therefore, debarred from neutrality towards any nation that may seek by violence to gain its ends—Wickham Steed in the Fortnightly Review.

Had Long Service

Man Responsible For King's Personal Safety Has Retired

The King's head detective has retired after 14 years' service at Buckingham Palace, and has been invested, at a special audience at the Palace, as a member of the Victorian Order.

He is Superintendent William George Cole, and bore the official title of "Police Officer in Attendance on His Majesty the King." He was responsible for the King's personal safety at all times and for all the police arrangements at the King's various palaces.

He has accompanied the King whenever His Majesty has appeared in public during the last 14 years, and has attended him on many private occasions also.

These Royal appointments are greatly coveted, although their responsibility is grave. The holders approach the highest office by stages. Thus Cole's successor at the Palace is the inspector who for several years has been attached to the Queen; and his place again has been taken by one previously attached to the Duke and Duchess of York.

Forgot To Remove Money

Winnipeg Cleaning House Found $900 In Suit Pocket

Junior has always been the butt of jokes for the miscellaneous array of knickknacks in his pockets, but men are only grown-up boys if the men in charge of cleaning houses are to be believed.

Watches, wallets, currency, cheques, business papers, memo and bank books are only a few of the hundreds of articles recovered daily from Winnipeg cleaners and establishments. The sum of $900 fell from the pocket of a suit sent in by a cattle buyer who decided to fess up a bit in town.

In 1900 Canada exported 470,000 barrels of apples; by 1920 this had increased to 1,238,000 barrels, and for the shipping season 1933-34 all records were broken with a total of 3,476,114 barrels shipped out of the country. In 1900 Canada's export apple trade was confined to nine countries; by 1932 thirty-six countries received Canadian apples.

TORONTO MAN GIVES AFFIDAVIT

In a sworn statement Mr. Henry Dawson, 30 Caroline Avenue, Toronto, tells how Fruit-a-tives gave him lasting relief from severe headaches. He wants others to be aided by his experience and consented to tell of it in a statement made under oath before a notary public that even a lawyer would be convinced of its truth. Mr. Dawson declares, "Following two serious operations I was bedeviled with severe headaches. The pain on the top of my head and in my forehead was, at times, worse than I could bear. I was unable to do my work. I was advised to take Fruit-a-tives. Since I used them I have not had a minute's trouble with my head. I can now do my work. I do not recommend Fruit-a-tives too highly to anyone who is troubled as I was."

Cop of Mr. Dawson's sworn statement will be sent on request. Write Fruit-a-tives, 415-435 and 500, Everywhere.

Food For Castaways

Supply Always Left On Lonely Islands in Indian Ocean

To be shipwrecked on some lonely island or rock, where there is no food, is a fate which has often befallen sailors.

It is those spots of land which are at a great distance from the regular ocean highways where the outlook for castaways is so desperate. Yet it is just these very islands on to which a disabled ship may drift. Typical of these islands are those called Amsterdam, St. Paul and the Crozet, lying to the south of the Indian Ocean. In the old days starvation was the fate of any man stranded on St. Paul.

Today he will find on the rocky beach a notice board bearing the listing for castaways. "Food and clothing for castaways." Following the direction indicated by a wooden hand, he comes across a rough stone hut, in which there is a store of preserved beef, biscuits, woolen shirts, blankets and matches. All these goods are contained in strong barrels, which can be easily opened.

As long ago as 1887 a French vessel left beer, biscuits and sardines on one of the Crozet islands.

Nearly twenty years after the food was eaten by the shipwrecked crew of a Norwegian whaling expedition.

Caribou Herds Drift South

Have Come Further Than Old Timers

Vast herds of caribou, lifeblood of Indians and whites living in the Northwest Territories, have drifted further south than old-timers in the north ever remember before. Pilot Stanley McMillan, Mackenzie Air Service, recalled.

Each winter herds containing thousands of caribou drift in from the Barren Lands and as summer approaches work their way back again from the tree line toward the desolate open plain of the north.

Recently the airman landed his aeroplane on the south shore of Lake Athabasca, only 480 miles north of Edmonton, where the caribou were plentiful. Old-time trappers in the district said that the first time they saw their knowledge the caribou had come so far south, he said.

The northern reindeer are as plentiful or more numerous than last year, where the herds were considered unusually large.

The herds are 80 miles south of Cameron Bay, N.W.T.

Duke Of Gloucester Saw Humor In Farmer's Remark

His sense of humor, blended with discretion and dignity, proved valuable qualities for the Duke of Gloucester on his recent tour of the Commonwealth of Australia. He prefers functions which aren't too formal and which are full of a good story on himself. He told the following at a dinner given him by the "Diggers" at Sydney, N.S.W.:

"Talking of absence of formality, reminds me of an incident that happened to me when out for a quiet ride one evening recently. A farmer riding home overtook me, and we chatted together for a bit, when he suddenly turned and said, 'Aren't you his highness?' When I admitted that I was, he said, 'Yes, that's right I thought I recognized your horse.'"

Fined For Excess Noise

Austria Places Limit On Sounds Made By Vehicles

Vienna, Austria, is determined to have silence, and has placed a limit on rattles and other sounds made by vehicles. A unit of sound, labeled "phone", has been evolved. Each class of transportation is allowed just so many "phones", and no more, and there is a schedule of fines according to the number of excess "phones." The police use a new apparatus which records the sound emanations of passing vehicles.

MAGNETISM

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

In various countries there is found an ore of iron which has the power of attracting small bits of iron. These are known as natural magnets. The name for this particular kind of iron ore was decided upon because large quantities were found near a town in Asia Minor called Magnesia. The natural magnets not only attract small pieces of iron and steel but they also possess the power of indicating direction.

If a piece of steel is stroked by a natural magnet it becomes itself a magnet. There are, of course, other and more convenient ways of magnetizing a piece of steel. Permanent steel magnets include the bar magnet, the horseshoe magnet and the compass needle.

If iron filings are scattered over a paper under which is a bar magnet it will be found that the iron filings arrange themselves in curved lines about the shape of the magnet. It will be found that these lines curve into the ends or near the ends of the magnet. If the bar is suspended by an untwisted string it will come to rest with one end pointing general north direction. This end is known as the north-seeking or north pole.

The space surrounding a magnet in any part of which the force from the magnet can be detected is called its magnetic field. It can be shown that the magnetic force is greatest in the neighborhood of the poles. The power of bringing to a magnet any iron considered to commence at the north pole, pass through the surrounding space, enter at the south pole and continue through the magnet from the south to the north pole. Thus every line of force is a closed curve.

The fact that a compass needle points approximately north and south (23½ degrees cast of north) indicates that the earth is surrounded by a huge magnetic field having a south pole near the geographical north pole and a north pole near the south geographical pole. It has been agreed upon by scientists that the pole which points to the north should be called the north seeking pole.

If Both Are Young

Chances Of Survival Until Golden Wedding One To Six

The chances a newly married couple have of surviving to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary have been removed from the realm of doubt and put into an absolute category by statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, according to a company bulletin.

When the bride is 22 and the bridegroom 25 years old, which is about the average example, it was found that they have approximately one chance in six of living out their fifty years together.

"The chance of this same couple surviving to their silver wedding is, of course, very much greater," the statisticians say. "In fact, just about three times as great as the chance of reaching their tenth anniversary is not far from certainly, namely, 927 per 1,000, or considerably in excess of nine in ten.

Sun Spots Indicate Period Of Greater Solar Activity

Two more large spots appearing on the sun's surface indicate that the eleven-year cycle of solar activity is again commencing, with its accompanying effects on the earth's radio, vegetable growth, lake levels, animal fecundity and even business prosperity, according to Dr. Orestes Caldwell, vice-chairman of the advisory committee of New York's new Planetarium at the American Museum of Natural History.

Pointing out that the sun spots in themselves are not portents of earthly events, Dr. Caldwell, who is editor of Electronics, explains that such spots are vast storms in the gases making up the sun's surface.

The presence of these sun spots indicates a period of greater solar activity, he says, which is manifested in increased electromagnetic oscillations that reach across the 91,000,000 miles to the earth causing auroras and upsetting communication circuits.

In turn this increased ionization speeds up vegetable and tree growth on the earth, stimulating crops and recording itself in the different spacing of tree rings, stretching back for many years. Animal life also appears affected, and Dr. Caldwell exhibits curves comparing the varying animal catch of Hudson Bay trappers with the corresponding numbers of sun spots for the same years. Although the same number of traps were set out each year, the catch of rabbits, foxes, etc., varied widely, indicating great variation in the number of animals roaming the woods, and this variation proved to be closely linked with the sun spot numbers.

Federal Unemployment Insurance Plan To Give Benefits Of $6 Per Week

Toronto.—The creation of an annual fund of $50,000,000 to be disbursed throughout the year to Canadian workers is the prime object of the Dominion government's unemployment insurance bill. The Mail and Empire says in a special despatch from its Ottawa correspondent.

The measure, The Mail story says, was before the federal cabinet Saturday and received the approval of the full ministry preparatory to its introduction into the House of Commons.

Benefits of the bill to individual adult workers during their period of involuntary idleness will average around $6 per week, the Mail continues. The weekly contribution which the worker will be called upon to make to the fund in order to qualify as a beneficiary will be in the neighborhood of 30 cents per week. The employer will furnish a similar share and the federal government will make a substantial contribution and bear cost of administration—which has been found in the experience of other countries to amount to about 13 per cent, the Mail says.

The scheme will not apply, in its initial stages, the Mail continues, to agricultural workers, fishermen or to lumbermen. Professional workers will not be included.

Ottawa's New Policy Governing Food Allowance For Relief

Toronto.—Uniform food allowances will go into effect throughout Ontario immediately as part of a new government policy, Hon. David A. Croil, minister of public welfare, announced.

The policy is designed to eliminate claims of discrimination from any municipality.

In 50 per cent. of the municipalities, Mr. Croil said, the change means an increase in food allowances, if the municipality wishes it, and is willing to contribute proportionately. In a few places it means reductions, among them Toronto township.

"This means," Mr. Croil said in his statement about the new policy, "that a family of four will receive food to the value of $5.25 a week. We think that adequate, and our scheme is scientifically determined by current prices. You don't have to be any kind of expert but a housekeeper to realize that the figure is fair. In addition, they are permitted to earn, without deductions, up to one-third of the monthly food allowance."

Bandit Leader Killed

Wuhu, Anhwei Province, China.—The leader of the Communist bandits who murdered Mr. and Mrs. John C. Stam, United States missionaries, paid for the crime with his life, according to word received here from South Anhwei. The leader, the reports said, whose name was Ching Weichow, was shot within the past two weeks by National government troops who had been attempting to drive the Reds from the district.

Throne Speech Passes Without Opposition In House Of Commons

Ottawa.—For the first time in years, the address in reply to the speech from the throne passed without opposition in the House of Commons. Liberals, Progressives and Conservatives joined in thunderous union when Speaker James Bowman put the motion into the afternoon.

It would have passed earlier except that three members of the Progressive group took the floor in succession, making attacks on the capitalist system and warning the government that while reform legislation was welcomed, no country would be happy and prosperous without socializing the means of production.

Liberals and Progressives withdrew from the debate, the Liberals on the second day in a row, their reason being to speed up the administration's reform legislation. The house turned to a resolution sponsored by T. L. Church (Cons., Toronto East), urging a national housing and building scheme.

Battling Snowslides

Three Men Meet Instant Death In Avalanche In Rockies

Nelson, B.C., Battling with hundreds of others against successive snowslides in the Nelson division of the Canadian Pacific Railway, three men met instant death when they were swept down a mountain side by a snowslide near Paulson, B.C., a station about 63 miles west of here.

The three men, Frank Lind, C.P.R. roadmaster, 48; of Nelson; Lionel Morris, shovel foreman, 20; Nelson, Mucha, 27, whose father is a section foreman in the Lardeau district were among about 40 others clearing a road side. They were members of a plow crew that had been working in the district since the first of the week attempting to keep the rail lines clear.

From meagre reports carried to Farron, B.C., nearest telegraph connection, it is surmised the men were swept out over the slide when another swept down and carried the three men with it.

Heroic efforts to dig the men out were made by their companions but when they were taken from the snow all three were dead.

Continued rainy weather has brought down slides at many points on the C.P.R. in the Kootenays. There were 14 west of Nelson and east of Grand Forks. The worst slide was at Blake, 23 miles east of Nelson on main Kootenay lake. It measured 450 feet in length and about 35 feet deep.

Brakeman Acquitted

Edward Lynch Freed By Jury In Hamilton Case

Hamilton, Ont.—Edward Lynch, C.N.R. brakeman, was acquitted on a charge of manslaughter by a jury in supreme court before Mr. Justice Makin. The jury took three hours and 45 minutes to arrive at this decision.

The charge was laid against Lynch following the Christmas night train wreck at Dundas in which 45 persons lost their lives.

Justice Makin, in receiving the verdict, said he believed the jury had given its best consideration. To the brakeman he said:

"You have been fairly prosecuted on this charge and the jury has found you not guilty. It is a pleasure for me to discharge you. I hope what has happened is not going to spoil your happiness and usefulness in life."

Would Put Farm Workers On Dole

London.—A unanimous report is being submitted to the cabinet, recommending that 750,000 British farm workers be brought under the dole. The report is the work of a statutory committee established under the Unemployment Insurance Act of 1931 and specifically charged with the task of making proposals on insurance against unemployment of agricultural workers. Sir William Beveridge is the chairman.

Throne Speech Passes Without Opposition In House Of Commons

Short Senate Debate

Social Legislation A New Step In Pathway Of Canada

Ottawa, Without a dissenting voice, the senate adopted the address in reply to the speech from the throne in one of the shortest debates in 10 years. Adjournment of the upper chamber then was made until Feb. 5.

"I believe the country as a whole expects parliament to take action real proper and forward action, in this direction," Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen said in commendation of the legislative program in closing the discussion.

Only three members of the upper chamber entered into the debate. Senator Raoul Dandurand, Liberal leader, followed by Hon. J. P. E. Casgrain, Montreal, and Senator Meighen.

"Never before has parliament met with a men of that attraction and that challenge on their desks," declared the government leader. "The care will be necessary in the framing of these measures goes without saying."

"That they will involve burdens upon those best able to pay goes without saying; but I ask hon. members who have watched the evolution of the world in the last 10 years, who have examined the social conditions of this country itself, if in their hearts, they believe these things can be avoided."

The social legislation announced in the speech was a "new step in the pathway of Canada."

Industrial Technique

Publicity Campaign To Be Carried On By United Farmers Of Alberta

Calgary.—Designed to show the advance of industrial technique and the development of co-operative marketing, publicity and organization work will be carried on in a large way by the United Farmers of Alberta.

All methods of publicity and communications will be used to sponsor the spread of co-operative knowledge to Alberta's populace.

Plans for the campaign have been sanctioned by the U.F.A. executive board, which has been in session here.

J. K. Sutherland, Hanna; Geo. E. Church, Balzac, and J. E. Brown, Canor, have been elected board members, and J. K. Sutherland has been appointed a member of the co-operative committee.

Coal Drivers Strike

Fargo, N.D.—With the mercury around 20 below zero, the coal supply of Fargo and Moorhead was threatened when upward of 300 truck-drivers walked out on strike. Police were protecting deliveries "where the need was imperative."

Union recognition, seniority rights, organization of a board of arbitration and reinstatement of two truck drivers discharged allegedly for union activities are demanded by the strikers.

Cut Bay Route Expenditures

Ottawa.—Capital expenditures on the Hudson Bay railway and terminals will be substantially less in the fiscal year 1935-36 than in 1934-35, according to estimates tabled in the commons. They call for an expenditure of $302,000 compared with $676,000 voted last year.

MAY SELL RANCH

Reports from London state that the Prince of Wales is considering the sale of his ranch in Alberta. Cost of maintenance and the increasing pressure of official duties were said to have caused him to consider the matter.

Farmers Must Keep Promise

Alberta Judge Rules On Orders For Debt Adjustment

Edmonton.—Farmer-debtors who gave with their creditors to pay on a third-crop basis or some other fraction must fulfil their promises or run the risk of being punishable for theft, and any orders given in future for debt adjustment on that basis must be obeyed at the risk of bankruptcy proceedings, it was stated by Mr. Justice A. F. Evans at a sitting of the review board under the Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act.

Several cases have been before the board, it has developed, in which the debtor has been shown to have failed in whole or in part to live up to his contract in this respect, and the chairman therefore felt it necessary to warn that the "dishonest practice" must be stopped.

"Maintenance of confidence in debtors' integrity is absolutely indispensable," he said, "whatever their circumstances may be."

Will Renew Loan

Federal Advance To Saskatchewan To Be Renewed For Year

Ottawa.—A loan of $500,000 made by the Dominion treasury to Saskatchewan Jan. 24, 1934, maturing next Jan. 30, will be renewed for one year, the province depositing new 4½ per cent. treasury bills with the federal government and paying the interest due on those maturing, it was stated in an order-in-council passed Jan. 22, and tabled in the House of Commons.

An additional order-in-council also tabled stated the federal government would accept treasury bills for interest of $65,968 due the Dominion on treasury bills already deposited by the province in connection with advances made.

Lively Exchange Heard When Leaders Have Tilt In Commons

Ottawa. Unemployment insurance and other reform measures will be presented to the House of Commons and passed in an "orderly and proper manner," Prime Minister R. B. Bennett declared as he was accused by Liberal leader Mackenzie King of permitting other less important business to delay the enactment of the reform program.

In a lively exchange, Mr. King accused Mr. Bennett of indulging in "pure bluff," and Mr. Bennett retorted Mr. King was staging "mock heroics."

The subject before the house, a distinctive national flag for Canada, was tabled into the background as the two leaders assailed each other across the floor. When the flag resolution of C. H. Dickie (Cons., Nanaimo), came before the house, Secretary of State C. H. Cahan proposed that it be withdrawn.

He said he had hoped some way might be found of reconciling the conflicting views on it but had come to the conclusion it would be impossible to get unanimity on either side of the house.

The government side presented an "amazing spectacle," said Mr. King. Conservatives had taken up a whole afternoon debating the flag question among themselves when the house wanted to get on with "reform."

Mr. Cahan knew then as well as he did now it would be impossible to get unanimity on the flag motion among the Conservatives but he was wrong when he ascribed the same condition to the Liberals. They were agreed.

From the speech from the throne and from Mr. Bennett's radio speeches, the opposition had got the impression there was nothing so urgent as the reform of the flag.

ent as the reform of the capitalist system. On the ground this should be expedited and on this ground alone the Liberals would consent to dropping the flag question.

"The leader of the opposition has taken this opportunity to attack the government," said Mr. Bennett, "and has made statements wholly at variance with the facts. This was a private member's resolution."

"The government has no responsibility for it and the differences of opinion which have arisen have nothing to do with the reform policy."

Mr. King had instigated the unemployment insurance bill was not ready, the premier said. It had been printed as early as March, 1934. The resolution dealing with it had been placed on the order paper first thing because the administration wanted to advance it as soon as possible and it was not then known the Liberals would not oppose passing the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

"When I spoke on the radio," said Mr. Bennett, "I was speaking to intelligent people who did not expect parliament to meet one day, pass the bill the next and adjourn the next. I wonder if the leader of the opposition thinks anyone but himself is being deceived by his mock heroics."

Mr. King retorted the prime minister's statement about the bill being printed and the resolution were "pure bluff." The government was not ready to go on and the opposition was eager to do so. The public would not be deceived by "any of his heroics over the radio."

Mr. Dickie withdrew his flag resolution and the house went on with another private member's motion.

Western Canada Fairs

Officers Are Elected At Annual Meeting Held In Winnipeg

Winnipeg.—Irvin Dean, Estevan, Sask., was elected president of the Western Canada Fairs Association at its annual meeting here.

J. R. Gunne, Dauphin, Man., was elected first vice-president; H. F. Hedley, Melfort, Sask., second vice-president; S. E. Heckbert, Vermilion, Alta., third vice-president, and Keith Stewart, Portage la Prairie, Man., secretary-treasurer.

Vacant Posts Abolished

Ottawa.—The government has passed an order-in-council which abolishes all positions in the government service vacant on February 1. The action is merely a "cleanup" of surplus posts within the service. If any of the posts abolished are needed they will probably be re-created.

Will Make Report Soon

Mass. Buying Commission Attempting To Find Evidence

Ottawa.—The royal commission on mass buying is attempting to finish its evidence and report to the house as soon as possible, Premier R. B. Bennett announced in the House of Commons. It would not be proper, he said, for the government to attempt to influence the commission.

Liberal leader Mackenzie King introduced the question, asking when the commission would report. It would be a good thing, if the report was ready and legislation introduced as soon as possible.

The prime minister said he agreed it would be beneficial if legislation was introduced soon, but the government did not believe it should interfere with the commission. He has informed the commission was expediting its work.

Tariff Board Has Been Asked To Probe The Duties On Gasoline

Ottawa.—The tariff board has been asked by Minister of Finance E. N. Rhodes to investigate the tariff on gasoline. The minister's reference covers crude petroleum and its derivatives. This includes items in the tariff schedule from 267 to 275.

The reference is accompanied by a letter from the acting registrar of the co-operative associations of Saskatchewan, which contains a request of the executive of the co-operative trading associations of that province for downward revisions of the rates of customs duties on crude oil and its products.

The tariff on gasoline at present effective provides for a duty of two cents per gallon under the British preference, 2½ intermediate and 2½ general. These rates apply on gasoline, distilled, refined and purified petroleum oils, coal oil and kerosene, naphtha and other products.

The letter said, in part: "At a conference of co-operative associations which met in Regina in June, 1933, the merchandising of fuel oil, such as gasoline, kerosene, etc., was discussed in some detail. The fact that a considerable number of co-operative trading associations have been organized in this province for the purpose of merchandising fuel oils on a co-operative basis, is one reason why the duties gave this subject their consideration. In addition, the prevalence of tractor farming over large areas of the province, is another reason why the various phases of the oil industry were among the most important subjects of the agenda of the conference."

The letter goes on to state that a resolution was approved at the conference calling for the free entry of petroleum products into Canada. It then proceeds:

"The permanent executive of the conference instructed the undersigned to bring the resolution to the attention of the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett. In acknowledging the receipt of the copy of the resolution Mr. Bennett suggested that the association interested make an application to the tariff board for reduction of the tariff on crude oils and oil products, and advised that the government would do everything in its power to expedite a hearing."

"I, therefore, have been instructed by the executive of the conference of co-operative trading associations to inquire whether arrangements can be made for a hearing by the tariff board in Regina in the near future, in order to enable the representatives of co-operative associations and others interested, to make the desired application and submit a detailed argument in favor of a reduced tariff on crude oils and oil products."

NOTES AND COMMENTS

THE RATEPAYERS' meetings were attended by 15 interested citizens. The editor was not there, owing to being absent from this metropolis of the Pass, but the secretary states that very few questions were asked and the financial statements were satisfactory to all. When everything is rosy very few bother, but if there is liable to be a fight, then it requires the largest hall available to accommodate the crowd. There is very little inspiration or encouragement to a council of school board if indifference is evident, nevertheless there must also be a feeling that all is well, otherwise someone would have been there to fire a few bullets of criticism. An expression of appreciation would be quite appropriate, and The Journal voices it on behalf of those who were not there, on the assumption that silence gives consent.

IN THE back concessions of the province William Aberhart has many followers who swallow the bait of basic dividends without analyzing his sweeping statements to ascertain how he is to accomplish the impossible. In the cities and in the prophetic gentleman's own bailiwick, public opinion does not appear to be "so hot," and openly declares that his followers are doomed to disappointment.

THE MYTH of the State Credit House is difficult to fathom. This is to be the clearing-house of the paper money in the form of non-negotiable certificates Aberhart proposes to issue, if his party is placed in power. What will be the guarantee of worth behind the credit house and the certificates is the question so many ask, to which the answer is equally mythical. But do not ask too many questions, or you'll be accused of being too thick-headed to understand even the simplest things in economics. Doubtless the straw vote will be highly encouraging to the enthusiasts, yet the only true test of public opinion will be by representative vote which will include all shades of public opinion.

THE C.P.R. partially irons out its difficulties of traffic through the mountains following the disastrous snow slides and washouts by diverting main line traffic over the Crows Nest route and to Seattle, thence by boat to Vancouver. Heavy trains of a dozen coaches and two powerful engines snorting through the Pass towns enliven the day, and impress one with the power of Nature to disorganize man's well laid plans. One passenger told of being held a week in Saskatoon, after making up his mind to start for Australia, a thirty days' steamship trip from Vancouver. Senator King travels westward to Victoria, and Gerry McGeer travels eastward via the Crow. Many of the notables are given a view of the alternative route, and the railway company does remarkably well in overcoming the worst dislocation it has experienced in traffic since the steel was laid through the mountain passes.

DEAN HOWES of Alberta university is a highly gifted speaker, who experienced in his young days similar trials to those of the young men today. Yet he states they never thought of leaning on the government in those days, and marching with Coxe's Army was looked on as part of a great adventure. He never turns down the request for a "handout," but still feels that young people have been influenced to believe it is the duty of governments to take care of them, instead of being encouraged to develop self-reliance and initiative. Unfortunately many have given way to despair, a despair which possibly has been aggravated by wrong teaching and revolutionary influence.

A NEWSPAPER, even though it be a small country weekly, does not just happen, despite the general opinion that everyone can run a newspaper better than the fellow whose job it is to publish the news. Were we content to use the scissors and paste, we could escape a lot of pounding on the typewriter, but we would miss some mental exercise and a certain amount of pleasant entertainment. You may publish a newspaper for a whole year and write a lot of stuff edgelled from the dim recesses of a thick cranium, and never know if anyone read it or not, but make one foolish slip or tread on someone's corns and then you soon find out if people read the paper. We remember one old fellow who climbed two flights of stairs to tell the editor he had used the word "done" instead of "did" in a sentence, and it always was remembered as an object lesson to be careful what we put in the paper. That lesson stuck with us all through the years, and though we may have been guilty of many mistakes, both before and since, yet it was interesting to know that there is ever a vigilant eye which might swoop on you for some trivial error. Yet it is the small things that count, often more so than the big things. So, in newspaper publishing, you never know who is reading it. At one time we had quite a run on "bad breaks," unintentional of course, and we used to keep out of the way for a half day after the paper was published, for Friday seemed to be the traditional unlucky day, but for quite a long time there hasn't appeared anyone brandishing a club or a fist, or weeping tears of indignation at something we had written or said. We must be getting older and wiser, or people must have become more peaceful or more indulgent.

AN ITEM of local news in the Estevan News: "For the benefit of those who do not know where Mrs. A. Ott now lives, she can be found in Suite 2, Mercery block." One would gather from this item that the lady must be well sought after, or that she is deaf and dumb. Undoubtedly it would arouse local curiosity as to what Mrs. Ott does, and the why and wherefore of this little piece of news in the local columns. Undoubtedly it pays to advertise.

Tragic Ending of Bill Yates

the war made him helpless.

"Bill" was a familiar figure around town, always quiet and unobtrusive in frequenting his usual haunts. The writer remembers him as look-out man for the forestry service on the station a few miles south of Coleman, and visiting him in company with Forest Ranger Antel, several years ago. Bill extended all the hospitality his little cabin could provide, which included as a finishing touch to the meal cooked up there a blueberry pie, the berries for which he had picked on the mountain slopes adjacent to the cabin.

The tragic ending of his life caused many a pang of regret to shoot through the hearts of his old acquaintances, but evidently not wishing to be a burden to anyone, he chose his own time and way of ending his earthly troubles. May he rest in peace.

The funeral is being held this afternoon from the home of his brother J. Yates.

Mr. Lowe gave the toast to "The Hometown" while later in the program Peter Smith gave the toast to "The Land of Our Adoption."

The toasts were interspersed by songs and recitations, the following taking part: Miss Winona Taylor sang "A Man's a Man" and "A Highland Lad." Miss Isa Ramsay sang "My Ain Folk" and "A Wearying For You"; Mrs. Holmes gave two recitations "Burns the Pride O' Every Scot" and "Unco Easy Lified"; William Smith, "The Highland Lass" and in company with Peter Smith sang "Wells O' Wearie"; Miss Peggy Gillespie, a piano selection, "Jessie's Dream." Two bag-pipe selections by Piper McIsaac.

At the close of the program Mr. Taylor gave a vote of thanks to the artists on the program and particularly to the ladies in the kitchen who were responsible for the bountiful supper.

Dancing was enjoyed till 1.30 a.m., a light lunch being served at mid-night to appease the hunger of the dancers.

Mild Weather Disastrous to Hockey Games

In Two Exhibition Games Trail Scores 5 and Coleman 2 Goals

Soft, slushy ice robbed Coleman fans of seeing what should have been the best hockey of the season. The soft ice slowed down the games to such an extent that barely 100 fans turned out to witness the second game.

Coleman were not outclassed in either game even though they went under by a 3-0 score last night. Trail's goals coming in the second period when they gained a decided advantage in play. Jenkins was unlucky in the first period when he failed to score as he bared in on Dupuis on several occasions and was giving that gentleman an anxious time. Bad feeling, especially in an exhibition game, spoils the game to some extent. Last night each team acquiesced the other of dirty play with the result Bill Gates sent several to the cooler.

McIntosh hit were defeated last night by Bellevue 3-2. This result adds more importance to the game between Lethbridge and Coleman. Saturday night Coleman are determined to show their superiority over Lethbridge. Come and see a hectic game.

During the month and 300 years history of the Annapolis Valley there have been many unusual auction sales but perhaps not one has been so extraordinary as that which took place in the municipal court, town of Berwick, Nova Scotia.

The goods were seized by plaintiff and when defendant did not pay amount due within the specified time the articles as listed below were sold:

One set of artificial teeth, second-hand (upper plate), four gold teeth, suitable for a young man.

Also part of an old upper plate of artificial teeth.

The entire lot sold for one dollar.

Fine Spirit Of The West

Speaker Tells Of Courage Of People In Drought Areas

Admiration for the fine and courageous spirit displayed by the people in drought areas of Western Canada was expressed at Ottawa by Rt. Rev. James S. Shortt, of Barry, Ont., moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Appearing twice in Ottawa pulpits to relate experiences of his trip as moderator from the Atlantic to the Pacific, Dr. Shortt told of travelling through the drought areas.

There he had found little but desolation. Great efforts were being made to supply the people with the very means of existence.

He had heard complaints and criticisms about the inequitable distribution of food and clothing and the methods of distribution, and he had a talk with Premier J. G. Gardiner of Saskatchewan, concerning the moving of Bank Act and the Act incorporating the Bank of Canada.

It was decided, however, that it was better to leave them were they were. With an abnormal snowfall this winter people were looking ahead with optimism to a good summer as there would be more moisture than usual.

Used Typical Methods

Soviet Had Good Idea When Digging Subway

Moscow's underground railway, which has just carried its first experimental train, has been constructed by typical methods of "Socialist competition."

I was in the Soviet capital two years ago, when the first shafts for the railway were being sunk.

Above the boarding that screened each scene of activity, which required what looked like a giant thermometer, it was a graduated board on which a pointer indicated day by day the depth to which the shaft had been sunk.

Every passerby could thus see which of the gangs were digging hardest—and which required the stimulus of a "shock brigade."—London Daily Telegraph.

Royal Bank of Canada Presents Strong Statement

Morris W. Wilson, President and Managing Director, Notes Distinct Improvement in Business—Looks Forward to 1935 With Confidence.

Sydney G. Dobson, General Manager, Reviews Financial Statements—Reports $50,000,000 Increase in Deposits

At the Sixty-Sixth Annual Meeting of The Royal Bank of Canada, held in Montreal, Morris W. Wilson, President and Managing Director, presented to the distinguished shareholders gathered to the bank by Sir Herbert Holt, who had presided at successive Annual Meetings for over a quarter of a century, and whose outstanding ability and prestige have been important factors in the sound and consistent growth of the bank during its regime.

In commenting on the strong Statement presented to the meeting, Mr. Wilson said that it reflected a year of operations under distinctly improved conditions, both at home and abroad.

Referring to the recent revision of the Bank Act and the Act incorporating the Bank of Canada, he stated that at the public hearings preceding these enactments the Royal Bank was able to justify their administration. He warned that the curtailment of earning power resulting from restrictions upon interest rates and the withdrawal of note-issuing privileges will inevitably reduce the ability of banks to maintain unproductive branches in small communities. Banking profits have never been excessive, and if an efficient banking system is to be maintained, there is a point beyond which enforced economies to meet falling revenues must not be carried, and increased taxation on the other, cannot safely be carried.

Referring to taxation, Mr. Wilson said:

"For every dollar paid in dividends last year, we paid sixty-seven cents to the Canadian tax-gatherer. This does not take into account the income tax paid by our shareholders themselves on dividends received from the Bank. Surely these figures require no comment."

In discussing the improved conditions in Canada, Mr. Wilson pointed out that during the past year manufacturing employment had increased to the levels of 1926; iron and steel production, the output of automobiles, textiles and electrical machinery had increased since the stimulus of a "shock brigade."—London Daily Telegraph.

Newsprint
"Demand from the United States for Canadian newsprint has been the result that the output of the Canadian mills in 1934 was more than twenty-five per cent. higher than in the previous year. In fact, it was within five per cent. of the peak year of 1929. Prices, however, were even lower than in 1933. Despite the fact that the most rigid economies, operations have continued on an unprofitable basis."

The Railway Situation
The railway situation continues to be the most important economic problem in Canada. Obviously, the Canadian people cannot stand indefinitely a weekly drain of $100,000,000 for railway deficits, and the time is rapidly approaching when more drastic and effective action will have to be taken if we are to maintain national credit and solvency."

Referring to world affairs, the President said that in spite of tense political situations during the past year, business has continued to improve. Production in Great Britain and several other countries was greater than in 1928.

"It is only in the countries of the gold bloc where business has become materially worse during the year. World trade, however, must be released from the multitude of new restrictions which were among the worst products of the depression, if it is to regain healthy proportions. The economic nationalism has proved a dangerous boomerang, striking down home industries as well as those of foreign countries. I believe that the pendulum of opinion has begun to swing toward better economic relations between countries, and I look upon this new attitude as a happy augury of further favourable developments during the coming year."

The Capitalistic System
"It is not surprising that new social experiments should have been taken in many countries in the hope of mitigating the suffering incidental to violent booms and depressions. Undoubtedly, the war placed a great strain on the capitalistic system. That system has been the result of a process of evolution and as such has been subject to modifications from time to time to meet changing conditions. Further modifications and changes may be a necessity if we are to escape the evils of major depressions. The difficulties in the past part were the outcome of short-sightedness. At the present moment the major difficulties have to do with the distribution of an increasing surplus which tends to exceed purchasing power. Increasing attention must be given to measures which will provide for a free and even flow in the exchange of goods and services. In the case of the 'New Deal' in the United States, or economic experiments in other parts of the world, may provide a workable answer to this problem, we should not hesitate to profit by the experience of others. Our own experiments which fall, however, are usually costly and it is prudent and wise to study the results of changing fundamental principles of the existing system."

The Outlook
"For more than a year and one-half there has been a distinct upward trend in business activity; improvement has been general in practically all lines of industry, including mining and trade. At the beginning of the new year conditions, both at home and abroad, were a continuation of this upward trend. It is true that in Canada there remain a number of difficult problems for which no final solution has yet been found. I believe that the Canadian people have the courage and ability to solve these problems and to bring about a more stable and prosperous future. It is upon the basis of past performance that I look forward to 1935 with confidence."

GENERAL MANAGER'S ADDRESS
In his remarks, Mr. S. G. Dobson, newly appointed General Manager, referred to the very satisfactory nature of the financial statements presented. He said in part:—

"After several years of declining figures, due to general conditions, I am glad to say the trend has not only been arrested, but under most headings has been reversed, in some instances to a substantial degree."

In reviewing the Financial Statement, Mr. Dobson pointed out the gratifying feature of the Balance Sheet is the increase of over $50,000,000 in deposits since the previous year. The total is now $1,275,749,453. Canadian branches contributed $41,000,000 of this total increase, of which $11,000,000 was in the savings category. It is interesting to note that an increase in deposits was shown by every branch of the bank.

"Current loans in Canada show an increase for the first time since 1929, and are up over $10,000,000. This is a significant change, reflecting, as do other items in the Balance Sheet, a heartening increase in Canadian business activity."

Mr. Dobson pointed out that all banks in Canada, because of their easy cash position, are looking for desirable loaning business, and the comparatively small increase under this heading reflects a lack of demand for loans, rather than a restriction of credit.

"Profits for the year were $4,368,217, but are not so comparable with published profits for the previous year because heretofore they have been reduced by extraordinary provincial taxes but before Federal taxes. For the sake of uniformity, the figures for the year are now disclosed in the published report. Making allowance for the resulting increase in profits, the net profits are lower by $268,448, leaving $1,066,804 to be carried forward in Profit & Loss Account, after the usual deductions for dividends, taxes, etc."

"In keeping with the downward trend in interest rates and the resulting difficulty in employing funds profitably, the banks and most other institutions accepting deposits reduced their rates on interest-bearing accounts 1/2 of 1% from November 1, 1934. This has had a beneficial effect upon bond prices, and has helped to reduce the cost of Dominion and Provincial financing."

"In the past year the special reference to the satisfactory results achieved by the branches outside of Canada and the valuable assistance they have given to export in the development of the trade in the countries where the bank is represented."

"On the whole, 1934 may be regarded as a year of substantial recovery for Canada. While we still have many problems to solve, we have, I believe, every justification for looking forward with confidence to a further improvement in conditions during 1935."

PETER'S RESTORATION

Golden text: Lord, thou knowest all things; thou knowest that I love thee. John 21:17.

Lesson: Mark 16:7; John 20:1-10; 21:1-23.

Devotional Reading: I. Peter 1:3-12.

Explanations And Comments
Peter's Restoration, Jn. 21:15-17. After the disciples had broken their fast, Jesus turned to Peter and said, "Simon, son of John [notice that he does not call him Peter, Rock] I love thee more than these [other disciples love me]?" This recalls Peter's boast in last week's lesson, "My all shall be offered to thee, I will never be offended." Now he replies, "Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee."

Note that he is "loving him" in claim priority of love, he does not say "I love thee more than these." Then said Jesus, "Feed my lambs," thus telling the heart-broken Peter that he was trusted, that he would be a spiritual rather than physical shepherd. Jesus asked the same question, and received the same reply. Feed my sheep? Who are the lambs who are the children, or in Jesus' standard of maturity, spiritual rather than physical? English commentators write: "In God's great human family there are some who are becoming more and more 'fellow-workers' with him. These correspond to the elder children moving on towards real citizenship. But there are others who are spiritually undeveloped—his dearly-loved little ones who need his guidance and watchful care, his ignorant and the unintelligent, the savage and the holligan. 'Make all that you can for the little ones,' the backwardness, make provision for their needs. Feed my lambs."

When Jesus asked his question a second time, Peter was grieved and replied, "Lord, thou knowest all things; thou knowest that I love thee." I said and all I did and all I am, but this thou also knowest; that the deepest thing in my heart is my love for thee. By that love which has borne no fruit, which has failed in the hour of need, which has been mastered by the world, which is not my soul, by that let me be judged." (John Watson.)

WHAT DOES YOUR HANDWRITING REVEAL?
By LAWRENCE HIBBERT (Grapho-Analyst) (All Rights Reserved)

(Editor's Note: More and more readers are taking advantage of the author's offer to make a personal reading of what his handwriting reveals. So many people to-day are desirous of making the most of themselves. See the offer following this week's article.)

I know that it is one of the most difficult things in the world to try and extend advice to young people who are in love. And if the advice is negative, what a moment—so much the worse.

So that the case I am going to quote in this article is particularly timely.

Some six months ago, a young lady living in Ontario, sent me a rather long specimen of her handwriting. The man, moreover, who had asked her to marry him.

She was fond of him in many ways, and really seriously considering accepting his proposal. But there were certain disquieting points in connection with him that didn't quite please her. She couldn't, for instance, get very much information from him as to his past life, and she was vague, and to all her natural enquiries as to his family, and so on, he was non-committal.

All this got in her cause to doubt, and she decided to ask my advice as to his suitability, and acted definitely to his advantage, and acted entirely on my advice. Her friend, by the way, was a man about 35, and her own age was 23.

This was a very serious situation, indeed, for my correspondent showed in her own handwriting that she had a very cultured mind and a generous, rather idealistic nature.

However, her friend's writing was very obvious. There were definite indications, not only of deviousness, but of a very strong, but that was a distinct sensual streak in his mind.

I advised my correspondent to give him up. It was a hard thing to say, but my honest opinion was that he was not only her type, but that his future with him would be very unhappy.

There was nothing more from my correspondent for a while, but just recently I received word from her and she told me that she had decided to marry him, and recalling her own doubts about her friend, she had given him up. . . . She had since discovered that her friend was a very bad man, and his wife was living in the United States. He had not been divorced. . . . I am sure that she was grateful for the advice that had enabled her to avoid an embarrassing situation, if not worse.

The thing to do is to give advice when it is given by an unbiased person—as, for example, a handwriting expert—is to take it in the spirit in which it is given. It is the simplest matter in the world to check any statement made with your own knowledge of your friend. And it gives you definite points to watch out for.

It is up to you whether you will attempt to effect a change in the habits or characteristics of your friend, or whether you will love him as such that you should sever the association altogether.

Add in this connection, it is worthy of note that young people in love are more amenable to suggestions as to their behaviour or characteristics, than later on when they are married.

Can Mr. Hibbert help you? Have you any problems that his advice can solve, especially those of the friends? Send specimens of the writing you wish to be analysed, stating briefly the nature of the problem, and include for each specimen, and enclose with 3c stamped address envelope to Lawrence Hibbert, care of the Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man. All letters are confidential, and replies will be forwarded as quickly as possible. Some delay is unavoidable, however, owing to the large number of letters that are coming in.

THE TENDERFOOT

By GEORGE B. RODNEY

Author of "The Coronado Trail," "The Canyon Trail," Etc.

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen heir to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur has been systematically looting the ranch, and old Joe Carr, your partner, is drinking himself into ruin."

Dad Kane, desert rat and luckless prospector till now is returning to tell Dustin and Spike Goddard, owners of the Broken Spur ranch, who had grubstaked him, of his discovery of a rich gold mine, and shows samples of the ore. He sees Broken Spur men rustling Hour-glass cattle and protests against it.

Proof of Dustin's cattle stealing activities was accidentally discovered by Stone, who accompanied by Edith Carr was riding fence a long way from the Hour-glass ranch house.

Dustin unexpectedly comes along and settles them, stone still him. Edith. He mentions the Soda Springs dispute could be settled by marrying him, and Edith refuses his proposal with remarks that make Dustin furious. He insults Stone, who promptly throws him into a pool of water.

Stone tells Carr, his foreman, about his meeting with Dustin, and is warned that Dustin would kill him if he got the chance. Stone and Carr go to Seco to send a telegram to Gerald Keene.

Dustin learns that Gerald Keene has been sent for, and also that Duro Stone has seen the Broken Spur men rustling Carr's cattle. He sets out with Dad Kane to learn the location of his gold discovery and appraise its value. Dad Kane shows Dustin the mine and samples of the rich ore he took from it.

They go back to camp, and Dustin shoots Kane. He fixes the shooting on Peyton Gregg, a drug addict, who, supplied by the Broken Spur men, had taken, did not know whether he was guilty or not. They bury Kane and then return to the Broken Spur ranch.

Meanwhile at the Hour Glass, Carr, Crewe and Stone speculate as to the meaning of entries in the notebook belonging to Dad Kane that Stone had found. Stone thinks of a possible solution, and, accompanied by Edith Carr, rides out to Kid Water to test out his theory.

(Now Go On With The Story)

"Seven what . . ." she demanded. "What was he measuring by?"

Stone dragged out his watch, laid it on a rock and deliberately set about measuring a cigarette.

"I may be all right," he said. "I may be just a fool but it occurred to me . . . Well! Listen . . . You see old Kane, bein' a desert-rat, never carried any measurin' tape line. He probably doesn't even use a watch.

"I guess cigarettes," he said. "I've heard it's a common measure along and below the Border and in Mexico. It can't hurt any to try it and see."

"Seven one, would be the distance he would travel in smoking seven and four-tenths cigarettes. You take this watch and time me while I smoke this cigarette."

"I mustn't, just hurry through it, you know. I've got to smoke it in the leisurely way old Kane smokes when he's hoofin' along behind his jackasses at about a mile and a half an hour."

"They do a little better than that," she laughed, "but you may be right. It can't hurt any to try. Give me the watch."

He sat on a rock at her feet and in between puffs at that cigarette he studied her profile as she kept her eyes on the watch.

"Seven minutes and a half," she said finally. And neither of them knew that in those seven minutes Fate had dealt a new hand to them both.

"That's forty-five. That makes about forty-five minutes up. Red Water came to a white birch. White birches ought not to be very plentiful in this land. Let's go. We'll lead the ponies. It's too rough to ride."

For nearly an hour they blundered their way heavily up the canon and finally paused at a stunted white birch. Stone let out a whoop of delight.

"All right so far," he said. "Now let's try again. I'll roll three this time and keep check on you. The trail is rougher here." And with Edith trailing along at his side he headed up the valley.

"Sunken can," he said breathlessly. "I wonder why he wrote 'sunken can'?"

"He must have made a cache there."

"Where'd you get that word 'cache'?" she countered swiftly.

"Look here Mr. Duro Stone . . ."

Mr. Hard Stone . . . You can clean with me. You can pull the mane over Frank Crewe's eyes but . . . come clean with me. You're no amateur cow-puncher as you'd like us to think."

He studied her with glowing eyes. It was not at all unpleasant to shed that false identity with her. Yet . . . He could not tell her quite yet. Too, he knew that when she knew exactly who he was, she would be furiously angry. He considered that carefully.

"Well . . ." He hesitated a little . . . "You're partly right, Miss . . . Edith . . ." He separated title and name so that he was calling her "Edith." "I'm not exactly the amateur I posed for. Gerald Keene is my best friend. Carl from Cato from Mr. Burwell at the bank there that there was trouble down here with Dustin. He figured out that if he came down here he might not be able to find out exactly how things stand so we decided it would be best for me to come down and find out exactly what the trouble is and . . ."

"You mean . . ." The red head flung high in wrath. . . "You mean that you came as a spy in the camp to find out if the Hour-glass is honest . . .?"

"Do I mean that? You listen to me, Edith Carr, and stop being a fool. I'm a western-bred man and I know my business. I know that a man does not tie to a man without reason. I know that when Peter Vinton took your father as his partner, old Joe Carr was a man worth tying to."

"Her eyes lit at that with a different light and she even smiled a little."

"If Keene had come down here and all the world knew him as Gerald Keene how far would he have gone in getting proof of the crooked work of this man Dustin?"

"You mean that you represent Mr. Keene?"

"Exactly. But remember that no one else must know it. The whole thing will be clear on the tenth . . . when Keene unmask."

She studied him for a long minute. She noted the lean lines of the jaw; the quiet smoky-grey eyes about with hazel sparks. She noted the firm lips and the aggressive chin. Then she took in the rippling muscles from wrist to shoulder and the "hour-glass" torso. She studied him but said never a word. She merely nodded but that nod was one of complete and utter satisfaction.

There was something about this man Duro Stone that gave her a sense of great relief. The third cigarette was all ash when he stopped and pointed to a pile of freshly turned earth.

"That'll be the sunk can," he said tersely.

She ran forward with a little cry and joined him as he stood over the place. The fresh earth had been placed in a little pile that he promptly scratched away with both hands and feet disclosing an ordinary five-gallon can that was filled with charcoal. Edith looked at it uncomprehendingly but Stone gave a little grunt of surprise.

The fresh earth had been placed in a little pile that he promptly scratched away with both hands and feet disclosing an ordinary five-gallon can that was filled with charcoal. "Old Kane knows more than I gave him credit for," he said. "Did you ever read any surveying, Edith? No? I thought not. . . . Well, I'll tell you something. . . . Out in the West where trees are by no means plentiful, surveyors have to use the most permanent means they can to mark the claims they desire. Back East trees are used. Out here they have to use what they can get. They found that charcoal buried in the place they want to mark, is the most permanent means. This can of charcoal marks a corner of the claim that old Kane had selected. He's run his lines from this can so as to include all the land he thinks has got ore on it. That's what he's after, of course . . ."

"I should have thought he would have described the claim in his notebook," she said.

"No. . . . That's where he was. Don't you see? He's a partner of this man Dustin's and he doesn't trust Dustin. That's it. Do you happen to know whether this is Hour-glass land?"

"I am sure it is," she said. "Our lines run along that far crest. . . . What's the matter?" she asked sharply. "What are you looking at?"

For Duro Stone, who had studied his craft from the catalogs of big department stores, was standing at gaze and his eyes were focused on a raw cut in the hillside not a hundred feet away from them.

He did not pause for explanations. He dived at that cut and disappeared in it and was back presently with both hands filled with great chunks of ore.

The most encouraging financial report in two years was laid before delegates to the Western Canada Fairs Association annual meeting at Winnipeg by their secretary, Keith Stewart.

With almost no exception, fair boards were well satisfied. Hummer and reported increased returns," he reported. "Everybody made a little money, more than the previous year," he said.

J. E. Lunney, director of the Regina exhibition, was elected president of the Western Canada Association of Exhibitions. J. E. Rette, Brandon, was elected vice-president.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

TEST SHOW

How valiantly they pace these boards. How forcefully proclaim The power of right: what eager swords Flash forth in honor's name!

As night on night the audience, Entranced and breathless waits. How well these players feign suspense, What envies, loves and hates!

Wind swells the canvas, great poles sway, Guys, creaking, strain and give. While not one scene the actors play Is strange as those they live.

By night, how many a lordly man, Great scholars, artists rare! By day, an out-at-elbows clan, Beset by want and care!

And still they go with courage fine And matchless gallantry To prove in glowing deed and line How splendid life can be!

DOES NOT HARM THE HEART

Little Helps For This Week

"Finally, my brethren, be strong in the Lord and in the power of His Might." Ephesians 6:10.

"No man can serve two masters." Matthew 6:24.

Oh, there are heavenly heights to reach In many a fearful place. Where the poor timid herd of God Lies blindly on his face: Lies languishing for grace divine That he shall never see. Till he go forward at the sign, And trust himself to Thee.

—A. L. Waring.

Reservations lie latent in the mind concerning some habits in the present, some possibly impending temptations in the future, and thus do we cheat ourselves of inward and outward joys together. We give up many an indulgence for conscience sake, but stop short at the point of entire faithfulness wherein conscience could reward us. If we would but give ourselves wholly to God, give up for the present and the future every act, and above all, every thought and every feeling, to be all purified to the utmost, then would sacrifice bring with it a peace rendering itself truly believe far easier than before.

F. B. Cobb.

Different in Old Days

To-day proceedings of Brantford, Ontario, city council are sober and dignified but in 1847 things may have been different. Anyway the village council that year passed a resolution "that any member coming to council drunk and acting like a fool shall not be listened to."

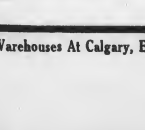

Do you waste Food?

Of course you don't waste food intentionally. But how much do you waste without knowing it?

How often have you thrown out part of a loaf—or the remnants of a cabbage or even the dried out carcass of a chicken?

These and other left-over foods can be used to make tasty dishes if you keep them fresh—and you can keep all foods fresh by wrapping them in Para-Sani Heavy Waxed Paper.

Para-Sani has dozens of kitchen uses—lining baking tins wrapping sandwiches; preserving the crispness of lettuce and celery. You'll find the self-cutting Para-Sani green box a great convenience and a real economy.

A Cooking Revolution

Modern women use Canister Cookery. Fresh meat when cooking fish, meat and vegetables because the Canister keeps them every bit of the delicious natural flavor, increases food value, and keeps all odors.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

Mayor Pattinson writing from Victoria states that records indicate the recent cold spell was the lowest in ten years with nine above zero, but it felt like ten below in the Pass. Because the relief department did not attend promptly to her demands, a woman in Victoria smashed to pieces three plate glass windows valued at over $300. "She is getting attention now," tersely states Mr. Pattinson.

Weekly editors from Southern Alberta at the annual Press convention in the Palliser hotel, Calgary, included Ralph Jessup and wife of Macleod; F. T. Edwards of Pincher Creek; H. T. On Sunday afternoon the editor and Mrs. Halliwell and daughter were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. T. Knights at the Glencoe Club, where a couple of very pleasant hours were enjoyed.

The service was held on Friday, Jan. 25 at the home in East Coleman, in the presence of the family and friends, Rev. Roy Taylor conducting. CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

At all Christian Science churches' next Sunday the subject of the lesson-sermon will be "Love." The following is one of the Scriptural quotations contained in the lesson-sermon: "And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love, and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him" (1. John 4:16). One of the correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, is as follows (page 6): "'God is Love.' More than this we cannot ask, higher we cannot look, farther we cannot go."

Editors of Alberta

papers were represented, and it is a noteworthy fact that despite difficult times of the past six years, with loss of revenue, not one newspaper had failed through bankruptcy, while the general standard has been well maintained, indicating that rural editors are determined to serve their respective communities as faithfully as in the past even though the financial returns are far from commensurate with the time and energy required to print the local news.

A business that has faith in itself advertises in The Journal and wins the faith of Coleman people.
